QUICK POINTS & RECOMMENDATIONS

Casa di Sassi by Premier Mountain Stone does not recommend the "dry stack" method for any exterior application. We highly encourage grouting on all exterior projects, especially cold, harsh climates.

Veneer stone may show some signs of slight scuffing similar to natural stone, but should be minimized with proper handling techniques.

In cold weather climates, stone may show signs of efflorescence. (Visit the cleaning instructions on our website)

Our stone products, except for the hearthstones, are not projected to withstand foot traffic. We also highly discourage the use of salt and other deicing compounds on any stone veneer product.

Casa di Sassi by Premier Mountain Stone products reflects variations in color just as is seen in natural stone. Our stone products are formulated and consistent. The colors in this catalog are as accurate as possible and may be subject to photographic lighting and printing techniques which may alter final "perception of color". We recommend visiting your Casa di Sassi by Premier Mountain Stone showroom and/or dealer in your area to view actual stone samples to aid in your selection process.
